THEME: We are here!

Primary school

Upper primary Fort Portal trip

YEAR 3

About school

I wonder how cool school is, we get to learn exciting stuff, play games and have fun. At the north green school we have stars of the week, Math week, Book week, Poetry evening, swimming galas and invite many people to know about them, we also meet new friends and compare with classmates and others.

Secondary: About the trip

Reflecting on what year 7 & 8 pupils enjoyed and learnt during the trip, this is what they said:

I enjoyed on this trip because we ... (not clear) I learned to know one another because like some time we will be in groups not knowing one another. I learned friendship, always helping one another and talking to someone. I learned how to milk a cow, it was so fun to milk a cow because that was the first time to milk the cow in my life.

Leo Jones

I enjoyed the chance of seeing what boarding school might be like. I enjoyed the games we would play at night, especially the bonfire and charades. I enjoyed spending one week with my friends, getting to know their comfort zones was fun. I also loved the breakfast and the dinner conversations were amusing. I learnt that different area have different strategies of living. I learnt how people in Mbarara survive without supermarkets, toyshops, nearby cinemas. I learnt that even if people in Mbarara look poor, they still have enough to make their lives easy e.g. the lady with the smart phone.

Kristen J. Mutesi

What I enjoyed on this trip is when we reached Mbarara and we saw where we were going to stay. I enjoyed chatting with my friends, playing games and telling stories. I liked it when we climbed the hill, milking the cow and visiting different homes. I learnt to be responsible, to look after myself, to have a positive side. I learnt to take care of others more than myself. I learnt how to face my fears because when we were hiking the hill, I was scared of heights. I learnt how to milk a cow, communicate with people. I learnt how people of long ago could wear, take medicine, and make cheese and how matooke is cheaper in Mbarara than Kampala.

Evelyn Byanjeru

I enjoyed the sights while we were going and coming back. It was really beautiful and I also enjoyed the cultures and dressing of the people. I also enjoyed hiking the hills there and visiting schools, it was really fun. I liked our houses, especially the boys with the reclining chairs. I learnt the ancient history of the place especially the Lake Mburu National Park and when we visited the museum. There was a lot that gave me a glimpse of the history and culture of the place. We also learnt the different lifestyles of people and studied them like their source of income and what they use for their livelihood.

Jeremiah Mutiibwa

I mostly enjoyed climbing up the too long huge hills, it was fun and relaxing. I also enjoyed going to the museum where we saw what used to happen in Mbarara. I learnt how to stay with my friends in a good way. I even learnt how to milk a cow and learnt that in Mbarara people used to worship cows and even fight for cow.

Christopher Musenze

I enjoyed going to the National Park (Lake Mburu National Park) and seeing all the animals in there. I learnt that here in Uganda we have very many animals like hyenas, lions, giraffes and many more. I also learnt the differences between the species of antelopes.

Nathan Ayesiga

On the trip I enjoyed many things. Some of them were foods that were being served, the campfire that we had, the hiking, also the journey we had to Mbarara, the games we played, the interviews we did in the neighborhood, the tour of the museum in Igongo, the story of the monument and also I enjoyed the game park tour near Lake Mburu. But what I enjoyed mostly was all of us together. I learnt many things from this trip to Mbarara. One of them is the way people live. For light, some people have electricity, others use phone light, torches or lamps. I also learnt how farmers in Mbarara milk their cows. I never knew that milking requires a lot of energy. The tour of the museum in Igongo taught us many things. One was the artifacts people used for either cooking or storing food in the old days; like pots. I also learnt the history of the Banyankole, how their houses were and how they dressed. I learnt that the monument was built to show the three events that happened in three kingdoms on the solar eclipse. And last but not least, I learnt how to be more responsible.

Bradley Kawuma

I enjoyed playing and bonding with everyone, taking long walks and hikes. I loved taking photos because it is a part of me. I surely enjoyed the bus rides and camp fire where we played games until we dozed off. I got so excited when Miss Delmus joined all of us. I enjoyed the stories. I learnt that I am blessed to have electricity at home, go to school, and have nice clothes. This is because some of the people who were interviewed had no electricity and some of their children didn't go to school. I also learnt that in order to succeed, I need to work hard, especially if I wasn't determined, I wouldn't have climbed the hills. Lastly, I learnt how to speak to an audience fluently and confidently. Mostly when I was supposed to teach senior two science.

Nicole Kahunzire

I enjoyed the interactions with friends, the new knowledge I acquired from the trip and the food given for all courses that is breakfast, lunch and dinner. I enjoyed the games we played and the activities we did such as hiking and milking cows. I learnt the Banyankole history such as the tools they used, weapons and different kinds of groups of the Banyankole. I learnt about the different animals that are in Lake Mburu national Game Park and the legend behind the lake Mburu. I learnt how cheese is churned locally in those areas and the cows are milked. I learnt about the reasons as to why the eclipse monument stands on that hill and story behind it. I learnt about the condition to which people in that area live and the transport they use.

Angel Magala Mecry Kirabo

I enjoyed everything! The games, the food, activities and so much more. Spending time with everyone made it fun because I finally forgot about home. I learnt different things; some geographical facts (for example how far Kampala is from Mbarara). How to milk a cow, learnt about people's lifestyle in Mbarara, the process of making cheese, some history of southwestern Uganda, about different animals, and finally learnt that hiking isn't easy.
